

The image shows a screenshot of the BBC Radio 4 'Front Row' podcast player. At the top, the 'RADIO 4' logo is on the left, and the title 'Front Row' is in large white text. Below this is a navigation bar with links for 'Home', 'Episodes', 'Podcasts', 'Clips', 'Videos', 'Features', and 'Front Row Late'. The main visual is a blue-themed graphic with the 'BBC' logo at the top, 'FRONT ROW' in large white letters in the center, and a '4' in a white circle at the bottom right. A 'Listen now' button with a speaker icon is on the left. Below the graphic, the episode title is displayed: 'Chuck D of Public Enemy on watercolours; author Jacqueline Crooks; artist Andy Holden'. A short description follows: 'Chuck D of Public Enemy on his first collection of watercolour and pen art; Jacqueline Crooks, Women's Prize for Fiction nominee; Andy Holden on self-taught artist Hermione Burton.' To the right of the description, it says 'Available now' and '42 minutes'. At the bottom, there are two buttons: 'Show more' and 'Download'.
